

INVEST IN PEOPLE, CREATE LASTING CHANGE

Your sponsorship of GECAC's Annual Meeting will support programs and services that strengthen families, empower individuals, and improve quality of life across Erie County.

From housing stability and workforce development to aging services, education, and basic needs assistance, our work is made possible by community collaboration.

This event is in partnership with the Jefferson Educational Society Global Summit. Attend GECAC's Annual Meeting, then stay for an engaging presentation by Nikole Hannah-Jones, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist and creator of The 1619 Project, as our featured speaker.

SPEAKER:

Nikole Hannah-Jones

Author of The 1619 Project

"The 1619 Project: Examining the Origins of American Slavery 400 Years Later"

Nikole Hannah-Jones is one of the most consequential journalists of her generation. Her landmark 1619 Project, published in The New York Times Magazine, reframed the origins of American democracy by centering the history of slavery and its enduring legacy. She received the Pulitzer Prize for Commentary in 2020 and a MacArthur "Genius" Fellowship.
